Two Fast Hockey Games

Two fast hockey games have been played between the Didsbury and Lacombe hockey teams for the semi-finals in the last week. The first one was played on Friday afternoon last at Didsbury, and the Didsbury boys had a little the best at it until near the end of the game when the Lacombe boys made the score which gave them the lead of one point. The score was 2-3 in favor of Lacombe.

The Didsbury team journeyed to Lacombe on Tuesday night to play the return game. A special train was run from Calgary to Lacombe leaving Didsbury at 6 o'clock. About 80 local hockey enthusiasts boarded the train and by the time it reached Lacombe there were some 125 passengers aboard. The train was late getting in and consequently the game was late in starting. The Lacombe rink, which is a covered one, was crowded to the doors to see one of the hottest games played on Lacombe ice this season. The game was opened by Didsbury scoring in the first half minute of the game and from then on it was tit for tat until three scores had been made on each side and three-quarters of the time had elapsed. At this time the Didsbury boys who had been playing an exceedingly fast game showed evident signs of weakening and the two goals which gave Lacombe the game were made in the last fifteen minutes.

Topliff had two scores to his credit and Curtis one, the score standing at the end of the game 3-5 in favor of Lacombe. At this time the Didsbury boys were very much pleased with the reception and treatment accorded them by the Lacombe stick handlers.

Cheap Lumber

There is quality in lumber, do not forget that. Poor lumber means a cold crude house, difficult to live in, difficult to rent, and difficult to sell. I carry cheap lumber suitable for some purposes, but the kind you want in your house I make a specialty of. My best grades I store in weather proof sheds. Did you ever consider how much your carpenter's time cost you to work up poor lumber. I am not advertising any cheap sale but I sell cheap always. Quick sales and small profits is my motto. Have you seen that shiplap I am selling at $20.00 per M? Have you seen those boards at $18.00 per M? I carry a complete stock of lumber. Anything you want you will find in my yard. No cash deposits required. You get what you see and both quality and satisfaction is guaranteed.

If you contemplate building, call and let me figure on that plan and tell you what it will cost any day.

CHAPTER XVI.
FAITH FIGHTS A BATTLE AND "OVER-COMES."

Faith Kirk was having one of her great battles as she worked over that Sunday dinner. And she had not fought it out when the family returned, bringing with them four friends of Mr. Fulton, business acquaintances from other cities, whose good will it was necessary to keep.

The dinner was served promptly, and Faith had no reason to feel afraid of her success. Mrs. Fulton even came out into the kitchen when it was over and complimented her on the dinner.

The guests lighted cigars and retired to the library with Mr. Fulton. It was now nearly 4 o'clock. By the time everything was cleared away in the kitchen it was half past 4 and in the short winter day dark already.

Faith went up to her room tired and rebellious. She sat down and at first said she would not go to church. Then she thought of the dear home circle, and for almost the first time since she came away she grew dreadfully homesick.

She threw herself down on her bed in the dark and had a good, hard cry. When it was over, she felt somewhat ashamed and her will again thinking. Then she rose and suddenly turned on her electric light.

"Faith Kirk, you are ashamed of yourself. Is this Malcolm Kirk's daughter?" She asked the question as she put on her cloak and hat and resolutely determined to go to church and be a good Christian in spite of her troubles.

"To him that overcometh," the verse happened to be the subject of the Endeavor meeting that very night, and as she took up her Bible and went out of the house she was feeling better as she started down the avenue and then turned toward one of the churches of the same denomination as the one at home.

For she was homesick enough to feel that she would enjoy the worship led in such a church.

Faith's Sundays in Chicago since she had been there were not at all like the Sundays at home. She had at first tried to attend a church near her boarding place. But at the end of her studio experience she had found out. Sunday work to do in connection with one of the social settlements. That work was now too far away, and she was compelled to give it up.

Tonight, she said, she would go to the Endeavor meeting in the large church only a few blocks from Mrs. Fulton's. She had seen the notice on the outside of the building, giving 6 o'clock as the hour of service.

The young people held their meeting in the chapel or prayer meeting room adjoining the main room. It was beautifully lighted and furnished, and as Faith went in she was greeted at the door by a young woman, who gave her a topic card and a hymnbook and then showed her to a seat.

The meeting began promptly, and Faith could not help wondering a little as she looked around at the very well dressed young men and women how much any of them knew about the struggle of overcoming. The next moment she rebuked herself for judging others.

"They all have their trials no doubt," she said. "It won't do to judge from appearances. Rich folks are not the happiest ones."

She enjoyed the singing, and some of the more familiar Endeavor songs brought tears to her eyes.

When the hour was about half gone, Faith had an impulse to give her testimony. She kept saying to herself that what she had been through that day was something that might help the others. In her father's church at home the young people had always been encouraged to help one another by relating their experiences, and Faith had no other thought in mind when she rose during a pause and told very frankly something of her struggle that very day.

The young people all turned and looked at her in surprise. Faith knew how to express herself very well. Her father had helped her much. She did not mean to exaggerate her difficulties, but she spoke more frankly than she might if she had not been overflogging from the day's experience. Besides, her heart wanted to find herself in the society once more, and she longed for the Christian Fellowship.

When she sat down, she had time to think if she had said anything she ought not. She had simply confessed her struggle as the Bible said Christians ought, and she had only incidentally mentioned the fact that she was working out. At home they had girls in the society who worked out at service, and they did not think much about it.

But before the meeting was over she grew hot and cold by turns as she thought of having told all those young people that she was a "third girl." She was almost tempted to get up again and say that she was the daughter of a minister and a high school graduate and that her father had more than one letter from the pastor of the very church where she now was commending the work done in Concord and asking for counsel as to similar work in the great city. Then she glowed with shame for her lack of courage. "If I did tell them what I am doing, it is no disgrace! It is an honest thing to do. I am not ashamed of it."

In spite of all that, when the meeting was over, Faith fancied that the girl who had been sitting next to her turned away very hurriedly without trying to speak to her. The one who had helped her to her seat, however, came to her and introduced her to a girl standing near by. The girl shook hands rather shyly and then excused herself, saying she had some company to work to do. Faith was left standing alone, and no one else spoke to her. She tried to believe that there was no intention in the neglect. But her face burned, and she finally resolved to go out, to shake the dust of that church from her feet and never return to it.

She had reached the door when the face of her father came up before her. The patient, hunched, long suffering father at home, who had to Faith's own knowledge, endured for years numberless privations and slights without losing his Christian unshaken courage. With the face of her father she compared another, the Master's, as Faith remembered it from one of the pictures she had at home of Christ in Gethsemane.

"This is not overcoming," she said to herself, and at the door of the chapel she stopped, walked back to the church door entrance and went into the main room.

An usher showed her to a good seat, and she sat there with her head bowed for 15 minutes before the service began. When she raised her head, her eyes were wet with tears, and the people near her looked surprised. But Faith had overcome. She had fought another battle on that eventful Lord's day and had won the victory.

When the service began, she enjoyed it. The singing was by a quartet, and to Faith in her present condition the music came with refreshing. The sermon helped her too. It was on the subject of Christ's sufferings, and she felt ashamed as she listened and compared her own troubles with those of the great Sufferer for the sins of a whole world.

At the close of the service she hesitated, but finally went up to the front of the church and introduced herself to the minister.

He was one of the Chicago pastors who had known her father when he was in the seminary. They were not in the same class, but had corresponded a little of late years.

"What?" he exclaimed as Faith spoke her name. "Miss Kirk of Concord? My dear," he called to the wife, who was near by, "this is Malcolm Kirk's daughter. You remember his stories in the papers. Our boys think there are no stories just like his. We are so glad to see you."

The minister's wife greeted her very kindly, and Faith almost cried, she was so touched by their cordial reception.

"Where are you stopping in the city?" the minister asked.

Faith hesitated and then frankly told him where she was and what she was doing. There was a moment's look of surprise on the faces of the minister and his wife, but they were genuine Christians, and without asking any more questions the minister's wife said as she laid a loving hand on Faith's arm:

"My dear, come and take tea with us next Sunday evening at 5. Don't fail, will you?"

She gave Faith their house number, and Faith walked out of the church, still feeling as if some Christianity were left in that great sinful city after all.

That night she wrote home a long letter to her mother, telling her all about her work and especially the experience of that day. When she finished, she prayed for blessing on all the dear home circle, and in greater peace of soul than she had known in a long time she committed herself to the care of the All Father.

As the week's work began again, the Fultons found themselves wondering how long the new girl's capabilities would hold out. Faith combined her father's physical endurance and her mother's New England traits and neatness. Her kitchen shone with brightness. Her meals were delightful surprises to every member of the family. Her good nature seemed unending.

"We've got a real treasure," even Mrs. Fulton confessed. Wednesday evening to her husband, "The only thing I dread is that she may not hold out. I have never been satisfied with any girl I ever had."

"Perhaps you expected too much," Mr. Fulton suggested, absently, as he continued to read his paper.

"I'm sure you pay enough to get satisfactory help," she replied. "If the capable American girls would only work out more we housekeepers would not have so many trials." Mrs. Fulton sighed, but it is possible if she had changed places with Faith that Sunday she might have understood better why more American girls do not work out at service.

Thursday morning Mrs. Fulton went down to the city on some shopping, and Faith was alone in the house. She started her kitchen work early and then went into the parlor to sweep and dust.

The piano was open, and one of Son's new marbles was on the rack where Alice had left it. She had been practicing it that morning before she went away to school, and finally she sat down on the stool and began studying the keys.

Faith had received a good musical education from her mother. The piano at home had been one of the few expensive things that her mother had kept and taken with her when she left her home in the east. Faith was like her mother in having a real passion for music, and she had a more than ordinarily good ear, and her technique was almost professional.

She had not had an opportunity to touch a piano since leaving home. The sight of the open keyboard and the new music fascinated her. Gradually she moved the piano as she was dusting of the furniture, and finally she sat down on the stool and began studying the keys.

The sound of the notes as her cloth pressed on the ivory seemed to make her forget her surroundings.

She changed the dusting cloth to her left hand and struck a few chords with her right. The instrument was in tune, and before she knew what she was doing she had dropped her cloth on the floor and begun the opening measures of the march which she

After a few attempts the music began to come to her. The march was not difficult, and she was fairly caught by its popular swing and rhythm. She forgot where she was and what she was, a "third girl," who was not supposed to know anything about piano

She was conscious of some one in the room.

They were Mrs. Fulton, who stood staring at her with a cold, stern look; Alice, who seemed astonished at the performance; and the young man whom Mr. Fulton had addressed in front of the picture on State street as "Malcolm."

They had come in unexpectedly, and all three had evidently been standing there for some little while. There was an expressive silence in the parlor as Mrs. Fulton came a few steps into the room and confronted Faith, who sat on the piano stool looking at her.

A TOUR OF THE ESCURIAL.

It requires about four days to make an investigation of the Escorial, the great Spanish palace, there being such a multitude of rooms and apartments. To travel all the halls, chambers, corridors, lengths and depths of the great palace would require a tour amounting to over a hundred miles.

What.

The game of chess has been traced by curious inquirers to the game of triumph or trumph or trump, which was extensively played in the early days of the sixteenth century.

A CURIOUS EATING CUSTOM.

The Daks divide in pairs when the hour arrives for taking food, the father and mother at one platter, two sisters at one and still two brothers at another. When the family is not equally divided as to sex a brother and sister may eat together, but this must always be the youngest and oldest of the family.

LA GRIPPEArrested, and Consumption Cured

Mr. G. D. Colwell, of Walkerville, Ontario, was stricken down with La Grippe in 1902 and it left him in a very bad condition. He says: "I was all run down and bordering on Consumption. I could not sleep at nights, had awful sweats, and coughed nearly the whole time. This is how I was when I began to take Pechine in a low nervous state but from the first bottle I began to improve. It did marvels for me and brought me back to health in no time, making a new man of me. It fortifies the body against the attacks of La Grippe and is a sure preventive. I always take Pechine if I feel a cold coming on and it puts me right in no time."

Parisian Sage Cures Dandruff

IF IT DON'T M. W. CHAMBER'S WILL GIVE YOU YOUR MONEY BACK.
Yes, Parisian Sage, the most amazing hair restorer ever discovered, and grows hair. The women of Canada, who have luxuriant hair, know it does, and that's why thousands of attractive women throughout the land are regularly using it.

For years this almost marvelous grower of lustrous and beautiful hair was confined to the elite of Europe and New York City, but about two years ago it was given to a select list of druggists, and today thousands are obtained in any city or town in America where society women of refinement dwell.

Parisian Sage is the most delightful hair tonic in the world. It makes the hair soft, lustrous and luxuriant in a few days. It is perfumed most delicately and is not sticky or greasy. It stops falling hair, cures dandruff and itching scalp in two weeks or money back.

H. W. Chamber's sells it for 50 cents a large bottle, and guarantees it, or direct, all charges prepaid, by Canadian makers, Groux Mfg. Co., Fort Erie, Ont.

A few Accident Policies still left. If you want one come in and pay $1 for a subscription to the Pioneer and get one free of all charges.

Keep a Checking Account

Put your private expenditures on a business basis, and pay your bills by cheques on the Traders Bank.

Then you are never short of cash to make a payment demanded unexpectedly. Nor do you need to bother with receipts—your cheques provide them automatically.

There's a prestige, too, in paying by cheque, that is well worth while.

A Branch of the Traders Bank has been opened in Erskine, Alberta, and we are advised that one will be opened in Matheson, Ontario, about the 21st instant. This will make 106 Branches of the Traders Bank in Canada.

A MAN who was afraid of thunder crawled in a hollow log as a place of safety during a thunder storm. The thunder rolled and the rain poured down in torrents, and the old log began to swell up until the poor fellow was wedged in so tight he couldn't get out. All of his past sins began raining before him when suddenly he remembered he hadn't paid his newspaper subscription, and it made him feel so small that he was able to back right out again.
